About Alpha Delta Gamma, Lambda Chapter

ADG is a national Catholic social fraternity founded at Loyola University of Chicago in 1924. Chartered in 1952 at then Loyola University of Los Angeles, Lambda Chapter has the distinction of being the first and oldest fraternity founded on the LMU campus. LMU's current student body vice-president of technology is a member of Lambda Chapter. ADG National has awarded Lambda Chapter "Most Outstanding Chapter" three times over the past nine years.

LMU's mission and goals state that, "The university is always to measure its success with students by their lives as alumni – the quality of their personal lives, of their careers, of their influence and leadership, and of their accomplishments." Lambda Chapter exemplifies LMU's criteria of success by producing outstanding alumni who are successful men both in their professional and private lives, as well as being men for others. Lambda Chapter alumni currently serve on LMU's Board of Regents and Alumni Board of Directors. Several staff and faculty, including the Dean of Students, are also ADG alumni. After graduation, Lambda Chapter alumni continue to distinguish themselves as leaders in a wide range of professions including business, government, law, medicine, accounting, science, engineering, education, aerospace, finance, real estate, entertainment, and the clergy.
